

Mrs. Fatma Dirkes is Vice President and Director International Advisory Services of Frankfurt School of Finance & Management. Established in 1957 as German Bank Training Institute, the School has today one of the largest faculties for both business administration and financial research in Germany. As Member of the Management Committee, Mrs. Dirkes is involved in the School's executive decision-making process and is charged with developing the School, defining strategic objectives, risk management and ensuring the institution is moving towards fulfilling its goals and mission. Since the early 1990s, the Schools unit, International Advisory Services has been committed to providing consultancy, training and policy services globally. On behalf of various government agencies and development finance institutions (e.g. EU, EIB, EBRD, KfW, IFC/World Bank) International Advisory Services carries out financial sector development projects across the world. By being responsible for the School International Executive Education Portfolio, Mrs. Dirkes has played a leading role in developing Frankfurt School's blended and online learning portfolio

Mrs. Dirkes is since January 2020 President and since 2017, Member of the Executive Committee of the Brussels based European Banking & Financial Services Training Association (EBTN). EBTN is the united voice of providers of vocational education and training in the financial industry and an international network of banking institutes. EBTN is open to organizations of various nationalities and has currently 43 Members. Association of Serbian Banks is member of EBTN.